Dearest Parents שיחיו,

While it's been a while since we have been in touch about our new facility, suffice it to say much has been going on "behind the scenes." With HaShem's help, a new team of attorneys have been hired and are prepared for an upcoming private Cheder zoning meeting.

The meeting is once again open to the public and it is very important that the Cheder makes a strong showing.

The challenge is that the meeting date is for Wednesday evening, March 28th at 7:00 pm.

While Pesach preparations will surely be the upfront in your to-dos, we respectfully ask that you attempt to attend nonetheless. Please encourage friends, high school age students home from yeshivos, along with Cheder students who can sit through the duration of the meeting to attend as well.

We are looking for parent volunteers to follow up with their children's respective classes over the next week. Our goal is for each family to bring 5 people to the meeting.

For any questions or to assist you with transportation, please email Mr. Josh Goldman at chederzoning@cliftoncheder.org.

The meeting address is:

Clifton City Hall

900 Clifton Ave.

Clifton, NJ 07013

Thank you for your assistance and may this be another step closer in securing a permanent home for our wonderful children.

With appreciation,

Rabbi Yonah G. Lazar

Mindfulness for Educators

By: Morah Leah Compert, Toddler Morah

On Monday, February 19, I attended a full-day workshop titled "Mindfulness for Educators." I am very grateful to the school for allowing me to take off for a full day of training and wanted to share some of what I gained from the workshop. The trainer, Nancy Siegel, has a varied background that includes teaching preschool, teaching yoga to children, training yoga teachers, and for the past 10 years, training educators to bring the concept of mindfulness into their classrooms. Ms. Siegel introduced the program by telling us that she originally wanted to entitle her workshops "Calm in the Classroom: It Starts with the Teacher." She emphasized that the more skilled a teacher is at maintaining his or her inner calm, the more calm and productive the classroom will be. The goal of our workshop was two-fold. First, to give teachers tools to be mindful and calm in their classrooms. Second, to teach games and techniques which we could use with our students.

Ms. Siegel defined mindfulness as "paying attention on purpose." For the first part of the workshop, we played several games during which she invited us to pay attention to our bodies, thoughts, and feelings. She was training us to notice, and not judge, our own reactions to what was taking place in our environment. The participants were invited to share their reactions, or as the presenter called it, "unpack." After sharing our own reactions, we discussed how each activity could be used with the students in the classroom.

There were too many activities to share them all in this brief article, but I will share a few of my favorites. Ms. Siegel brought out a Hoberman Sphere (the plastic balls that start small and expand; there is also one suspended in the lobby of The Liberty Science Center); she explained that with children she calls it a breathing ball. As she opened it, she guided us to take a deep breath in through our noses, and as she closed it, to breathe out. It's a very visual guide for deep breathing. I'm excited to say we purchased one for our classroom already and I am very excited to start using it with the children. Ms. Siegel also guided the teachers to become aware that when we are feeling tense or anxious, taking several deep breaths calms the body and mind. She encouraged the teachers to guide their students in deep breathing along with them when the teacher feels a need for it. Connected to the lesson on breathing, Ms. Siegel taught us about what Dr.

Dan Siegel calls the "handy model of the brain." She encouraged us to read or watch videos on Dr. Siegel's layman's explanations of brain science. The simplest explanation is that when the emotional part of our brain takes over, breathing deeply helps to engage the more thoughtful part of our brain.

Another exercise the presenter had us do was entitled "Layers of Sound." She had us close our eyes and listen to sounds in the room, then outside the room, then stretch our hearing farther away. Then she invited us to listen to the sounds outside the room, then inside the room again. She described different ways we could use the exercise with our students. She also had Tibetan chimes called Tingshas. She demonstrated how you can listen and follow the sound until you don't hear it anymore. She also described different ways to use that exercise with our students. She gave us an extensive list of resources including books for both adults and children. She showed us one of her favorites for children entitled Breathe and Be, by Kate Coombs.

We ended the day with two different meditation exercises, one of which I've been using daily since the workshop. The training was a tremendously worthwhile experience, and I am very thankful to Mrs. Levit and Rabbi Lazar for allowing me the time away from school to attend it.

Pesach Comes Alive

Morah Naomi Ovadya traveled all the way from Eretz Yisroel (her home) to treat the children of our Early Childhood and Pre1A girls to a dazzling, fun, interactive and unique Pesach program. The children were literally placed into the Pesach story. Reenacting our slavery, walking through the ים סוף with our matzos on our backs, and coming to the כותל for the קרבן פסח were just some of the highlights of the program. Of course, Basya's very long arm elicited many giggles along with the lamb hats. The children were busy from scene to scene, changing costumes and props. The program concluded with singing and dancing to לשנה הבאה בירושלים!

Special thanks to the Cheder N'shei for sponsoring this exciting Pesach program.

Finding Hashem in Our Daily Life

Our 4th grade, led by their Rebbe, Rabbi Erlanger, has spent the year finding and focusing on Hashem's השגחה in their lives. Through their HP (Hashgocha Pratis) story box, the talmidim have been collecting stories of hashgocha protis. The stories were edited and printed in the back of the talmidim's Haggados. Thank you Rabbi Erlanger for creatively inspiring our talmidim and enhancing their most precious asset – אמונה בה'. Below please enjoy a few samples of the boys' work.

Shimmy Gildin

It was my birthday and I was getting a hamster for my present. We went to the store and they were out of them so we just got the cage and other stuff that come along with the hamster. We were told that the next day there will be a new shipment of hamsters, so the next day we called them and they said they did not get a new shipment. I was disappointed. So that day we decided that we would at least put together the cage. When we started putting it together we realized the cage was a little broken and my mother said we need to return it and get a non defective one. When we came back to the store, lo and behold there was an entire new shipment of hamsters!! So we got the cage and the hamster!

Moshe Mittel

A person came to the bakery and dropped $20 on the floor and that Shabbos we were in West Orange and we davened in a minyan that they honored a new gabbai and the new gabbai was the person who dropped the $20.

Yaakov Mordechai Shacham

There were 7 cookies which Rebbi wanted to give out and only 7 kids wanted.

Yakov Zarkhin

I was not feeling so well at the Melaveh Malka that Rebbe made in his home. I picked to sit in the corner by myself. At the place where I sat there was a paper hiding that said "you are the winner of 2018 Rabbi Erlanger Melaveh Malkah." Because I sat in that seat I won the LED touch night lamp.

3rd Grade French Artists

What do you get when you cross the study of France, a biography unit, art and scavenger hunts? An art museum of course!

In conjunction with the third grade social studies and literacy curriculum, the third graders ran an art museum for the second and fourth grade!

Guests came to learn about French artists and the art they created. Each exhibit included a French artist, some biological information, a sample of his art work, and an explanation of this specific type of artwork. Guests used scavenger hunt forms to make sure lots was learned; that the exhibits were seen and that points were taken in.

Merci, third grade!

2nd Grade Animal Show

Our second graders culminated their science unit on animals and their habitats by researching an animal of choice, making a model, and building a habitat.

The habitats created by the class were spectacular! Each student created an animal, and built a habitat to house it. Students used an array of artistic mediums, like grass, Legos, clay and more. There even were special effects using lights and string.

The essays were well written, informative, and showed a true understanding of both the researched animal and its habitat. The habitats we creative and fun to look at. Guests of all ages truly enjoyed.

A point to take with you:

Did you know lemurs could do math??

The second graders blew everyone away with their reports, published after a trip through the writer's process. Using library books to conduct research, the students used graphic organizers to draft, and then revised and edited using COPS. The final result was a published 3-part essay teaching their readers all about their animal of choice.

Imaginations were not needed when reading the second grad-

Below are a collection of questions and thoughts on the recent פרשיות that came to the minds of our תלמידים while doing the מצוה of תרגום ואחד מקרא

פרשת משפטים

Binyomin Cohen - Why does the פסוק say an eye for an eye?

פרשת תרומה

Dovid Schwartz - It says in the פרשה, take תרומה for Me - Hashem. Isn't תרומה given to the כהנים?

Binyomin Cohen - Why do we only talk about the מנורה, שולחן, ארון and not the other כלים in this Parsha?

פרשת תצוה

Binyomin Cohen - Why was the חושן folded? Couldn't a different בגד be folded for the תומים?

פרשת כי תשא

Binyomin Cohen - If the מזבחות are in תצוה why do they not talk about the כיוור?

Mordechai Shillingford - It says in ב"ד י"ד ב"ד by מחלל will die by ב"ד, פרק לא, פסוק י"ד that anyone who is מלל will die by ב"ד. But then it says all who do מלאכה - ונכרתה?

פרשת ויקהל-פקודי

Binyomin Cohen - Why do we build the כלים for the משכן in this פרשה and not earlier in the Chumash, like תרומה-תצוה?

פרשת ויקרא

Binyomin Cohen - Why are we talking about קרבנות now, we should talk about them in an earlier Parsha?
