

CHEDER CHESHEK

Your peek at how Chinuch and Cheshek go hand in hand

A Message from the Menahel

Terror and grief in Eretz Yisroel.

The solution lies within ourselves.

In regard to the narrative of יצחק אבינו and his conflict with the פלשתים, the רמב"ן famously wrote:

מעשה אבות סימן לבנים - The actions of the Avos foretell the future of their children.

All our challenges with the nations of the world were spiritually engineered in the accounts of this week's פרשה.

Ultimately, אבימלך - the leader of the פלשתים seeks out peace with יצחק.

As the פסוק testifies, this was not out of love or fear of his physical strength.

Rather אבימלך saw that "ה' עמך" - Hashem was with יצחק.

As we fortify ourselves with שמים יראת - the midda of יצחק, we can be confident that our present day enemy who occupy the same land as אבימלך will also seek peace... simply because ה' עמנו.

Points from the Principal

We are in the midst of celebrating endings and getting excited about beginnings. Celebrations, fairs, and the excitement about what's coming next are driving our days and keeping us busy with smiles.

These moments, both the endings and the beginnings, are not just fun but important. They give us an opportunity to say Baruch Hashem, there is so much to be proud of! We can also use the feeling of success to drive where we are heading; whether we are reading a new book, learning about a new topic or starting to practice new skills. Endings prove our growth, and acknowledging them keeps us growing.

This week we published our first Middos Matter book of the year - Emunah. The boys wrote beautifully about Hashem with their hearts filled with love. Our first book is one to be proud of, and can also fill us with excitement because we know there is so much more yet to come.

Baruch Hashem! Enjoy the book with nachas, and know it's a step towards what is yet to come!

Have a wonderful Shabbos!
